

Team Expansion's Privacy Policy

(January 2017)

At Team Expansion, we are committed to protecting your privacy. We use the information we collect about you to communicate with you and help us improve our services.

When we receive a donation for the work of one of our teams, we might need to know your name, address, telephone number, email address and payment details. This allows us to process the gift and properly to send a thank-you note and a receipt. Your telephone number may be used to contact you if there is a question regarding your donation. On certain occasions your telephone number may be passed to a courier service to enable delivery. Details given for orders are used only for this purpose.

NOTICE ABOUT COPYRIGHT

Sharing stories is important as we journey together. That's why Team Expansion reserves the right to use items posted on this website in other media, books, newsletters, etc.

There's a lot of amazing material on this site that could encourage a lot of people. If you choose to post stuff (including prayers, stories, pictures, etc) on this web site, it is our condition that in so doing you are granting Team Expansion unlimited permission to use your material in other contexts too without consent so long as the aim of the publication is to encourage prayer and mission. For this reason you should not post other peoples' work without their specific, written permission to do so, having made them aware of these conditions. It is a condition of adding an entry to this forum that you agree to this. Please do say if anything you submit is not your original work!

We would advise discretion in using your full / real name in these forums as we really do not want to cause anyone any embarrassment, etc by wider distribution of what gets submitted. The above does not apply to the 'help' forum, where appropriate levels of confidentiality are assured.
